

Custom Web Application Development

Glenn Abbey Software Inc. is a computer consulting and application design firm, focusing on the design of dynamic, database-driven web sites and applications as well as custom applications for handheld devices. All of us at Glenn Abbey Software Inc. - programmers, Web site developers, and marketing professionals are committed to providing customized solutions that can meet the your changing needs.

In our highly collaborative work environment we'll discuss and debate the details as we develop your solution, making sure that your voice rings loud and clear throughout the process. This multi-disciplinary approach means that all of us add our own specialized experience to each project, delivering an end product that will work for now and grow with you as your needs change.

{josquote} I do want to take the time to say that I appreciate all of your help and hard work. It is truly refreshing to work with folks that really say what they mean.

Dawn, PA, USA{/josquote}

Glenn Abbey Software's versatile design team will design your solution for any platform, using the best applications for your project. We can also modify existing technologies to meet your specific needs, giving your solution a level of customization that is second to none.

We've developed custom software for school districts for over 5 years, culminating in our open source software product, Centre. We have also written custom applications for banks, contractors, associations, and other private businesses.

Glenn Abbey Software Inc. is the only source for companies looking for high value, and require a level of personal attention and customization unmatched by anyone in the industry.

For more information, contact us.

{FacileForms:app_devel}